As a paralegal in Gallagher's Real Estate Practice Group, Rick assists clients and attorneys in representing lenders, real estate developers, equity investors, health systems, colleges and universities and more.

In his previous role building and developing a range of arts spaces, Rick garnered experience in idea generation, problem solving and follow-through, which he incorporates in his work with Gallagher clients.

Rick is currently studying business law at the University of Maryland Francis King Carey School of Law, where he is expected to graduate in 2024.

Beyond Gallagher

Rick enjoys returning to his hometown of Virginia Beach with his wife, Susan, and son, William, to enjoy the surf and sun. He also likes cooking and hopes to find time to return to his drum set when he graduates.
